20TH SUNDAY OF THE YEAR

Anyone who eats this bread will live forever

Jesus said to the crowd: 'Anyone who eats this bread will live forever'. To live forever is one of the longings in every human heart. And yet death is part of every human life. Jesus reveals though that death is not the end but only the beginning of new life and he has led the way for us through his resurrection. And he gives us his own body and blood to lead us into eternal life. Through the Eucharist we are already united with life that will last forever; a life that we are called on to live now through our love for God and for one another. Eucharistic people are meant to be people who live life to the full, people who radiate hope, people who are known for their joy and gladness in being alive, people who forgive easily and often, people who bring peace and happiness into the lives of all whom they meet. Fr. Johnny Doherty, C.Ss.R.

'History in Silent Places'

The group's second field trip takes us into the Parish of Tamlaght O'Crilly, where we will visit St. Nossonus' Church of Ireland Church, Innisrush and St. Mary's Catholic Church Greenlough.

Just like their Portglenone counterparts both graveyards reflect a wealth of local interest, stretching back to the 1700's. Evidence of prominent families, historical events and of course sad recollections will be brought to light as we make our way through these evocative sites. Our trip will allow us to visit the churches and to view the location that gives rise to the local name of the parish, Greenlough.

Everyone is very welcome, and your knowledge, or personal connection with someone interred there will be much appreciated and will greatly enhance the event as it did during our first trip. So, please join us, learn about the past and share your reminiscences. (Children must be accompanied by an adult). Parking is available at both sites.

When: Monday 20 August, 7:00 pm - 9:00
